

SOME OF OUR MANY TALKING POINTS ON THE DRIVE HOME...

- THE magnificent support and joyous singing. It is SO amazing to have that feeling back of just singing your heart out in celebration rather than desperation. And the minute's applause for Divvy - so well observed by Coventry fans, thank you - almost brought a goal, too. We also noticed the coopers being visible but low-key, despite boisterous behaviour and standing in gangways. Wow: a police force with a brain.
- Our Talking Point on the way up centred mostly on Pack for Smith, how would that turn out? Turned out alright! He said before the Cheltenham JPT game, "In my position, the important thing for me personally will be to make my first four or five passes easy ones and then I'll be in the game." That is to say, 'it takes me a few touches to get in to the swing of things.' Hence, maybe, some of his sub appearances not being too hot. At the Ricoh, mind, probably about his sixth touch was that 25 yarder, arrowed into the bottom corner, from which he grew in confidence and stature and had an outstanding first half.
- The pitch was p*ss poor (and that's without a load of ruggie buggers getting their beer bellies on it yet). The ball bobbed a fair bit, but we coped, although our health might have been better without Frankie having to kick so much but we could have again done without sitting back, seemingly, from the 46th minute. Better teams (eg, say, Fleetwood or Walsall) might have equalised at 2-1. But the counter attack and JET's pass and Waggy's finish (and celebratory dive) were MAGNIFIQUE!
- City delivering the goods on a big day. It's by no means a regular thing, that. Such a reward for team and management and fans to share the feeling of a comprehensive away win in front of the Red Cider Army!
- Talking of good feelings...full-time at the Bruce Rioch Arena, (right) ...
YOU REDS!!

Natch Rating: (out of 5)

(We're gonna be picky and say clean sheet, please!!)

JET WATCH: Dench or Bench this week? DENCH!! JET WILL TEAR YOU APART, IN THREE MINUTES! Is there another league in the world, at the third tier of which, sits a player of his calibre, only used for 5 mins (max) each game? He certainly made his mark again, as he did with that flick last Saturday, this time a surging run and inch-perfect pass into Waggy's feet for our third - reward for the 4000 fans to see a goal in front of them. 20 goals on the bench! Top of the league!
